THE FORUM OF DEBATE.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS OVER THE COUNTY GREAT SUCCESS.

The Pointers from Senator Plumb About the Political Georgia Alliance Scheme Being Utilized.

The pointers Senator Plumb gave the local speakers on the political Alliance was quite valuable information and most effective. They have been using it without apology and the members of the organization themselves are quite glad to hear something of the inside history of what in part has been turned into a political scheme, headed by office-seekers, book-sellers and collection-makers. The work during the last week has been most satisfactory as it has distributed much valuable information which could only result in giving the proper direction to many ballots on election day. The tricksters and bad weavers are becoming very much alarmed and the home stretch of the campaign is interesting and amusing.

The Republicans of Delano township were addressed by Messrs. J. S. Carson and G. G. Eckstein.

Mr. Carson in an hour's speech reviewed the state legislation of the Alliance party, showing that Kansas represented by the Republican party had legislated in favor of the laboring classes, citing the homestead-exemption, garnishment laws, also the trust and combine bill. He also reviewed the last legislation of the Republican party in its national matters, and showed the wages of the laboring man in 1870, 1875 and 1880 showing that the same had gradually increased while the price of commodities had proportionately decreased during the same periods and that the laboring man during Republican rule had prospered more than under the rule of the Democracy. He compared the conditions of the people of that and other countries and affirmed that it was due to the system of protection inaugurated by the Republican party. He dwelt particularly upon the tariff showing that while this bill was not all we had hoped for, still served our interests better than the still spring of Democracy, the Mills bill, and that it had lessened the burden to the farmer and protected his interests better than any bill presented. By the opposition, he said the Republican party was a party in the interest of the farmers and its legislation was always in the interest and for the benefit of the laboring classes.

Mr. Eckstein was then introduced and said that the Republican party was a party for and by the people and that a free and fair discussion of the questions of the campaign, and that was engaged in our ideas of justice, that no intelligent citizens would listen to the pleadings of those so-called leaders of the third party not to listen to Republican speeches for fear some would go astray. He believed that the government was safe in the hands of the people, and that no party could sustain, which did not advocate a fair discussion of the questions before the people.

He discussed the present existing depression of business and showed up the so-called vicious (?) legislation of the Republican party. He reviewed the acts of the past congress and legislature of the state, and said that that was vicious legislation every laboring man would cry for more. He showed the fallacy of the Alliance argument that the currency had contracted during the past twelve years, and discussed at length the economic questions, and dwelt especially upon the silver bill passed by a Republican congress, showing that instead of demonetizing silver it added nearly $80,000,000 yearly to our circulating medium. He discussed the railroad question and then paid his compliments to the 3 per cent. loaning business of the United States, advocated by Jesse Simpson and other leaders. He said it never could be, and never could be hoped for, in the history of any party.

He compared Simpson with that gallant and representative Republican, Col. Hall, well and said that Seligwick could not for the first time, could elect her own representative, and that he had too much confidence in their good judgment to believe that Simpson could obtain their support. His allusions to Hall were received with applause. He also spoke of the county ticket, and compared them with the candidates upon the Alliance and Democratic tickets.

Mr. Pat. McDonald was also called for, and in a short address showed that the Republican party has always been steadfast in its allegiances to the farmers of the state and that it could always be relied upon to stand by them in all their demands. Delano will cast less Alliance votes than any township in the county and Hallows will remain one of the ticket.

El W. Phillips called the meeting to order and A. T. Green was made chairman. A large and enthusiastic audience was present, consisting of ladies and gentlemen. W. L. Sturdevant first addressed the meeting. He spoke at length of the silver bill and the past and present condition of the currency. He then briefly reviewed the legislation of congress and the state legislature in the interest of the farmer and laborer. P. A. Rohrbach then addressed the meeting, directing his remarks to the political alliance and the visionary schemes of the Alliance orators. He was followed by El Phillips, the farmer candidate on the Republican ticket for representative. Mr. Phillips said he had been charged with voting for the common pleas court. This he did not do, whether the bill was a good one or not, as the names would show. He spoke at some length of his interests as a farmer and said that any law which would affect the farmer would affect him.

A. T. GARDEN PLAIN. A rousing Republican rally was held at Garden plain on Friday evening, addressed by Senator O. H. Bentley and A. M. Sturdevant, Esq. An Alliance meeting was held at the same time and place, and a protracted meeting was in progress in the Methodist church, yet, notwithstanding this fact, and the further fact that the meeting began late, about 9 o'clock, the meeting was a success and did not close until nearly midnight. Mr. Sturdevant was the first speaker introduced and for about one hour held the close attention of the audience. He discussed at great length, and with force and precision, the many recent acts of congress, covering the great economic questions of the hour. Mr. Sturdevant is a close, careful, logical speaker. His discussion of the silver bill and congressional action thereon, was timely and well put.

At the close of Mr. Sturdevant's address Senator O. H. Bentley presented and spoke for more than an hour, discussing the campaign largely from a local standpoint, and touching upon the personnel of the congressional and county ticket. Senator Bentley laid special stress upon the Farmer's Alliance being of southern origin, the charters of the order coming from Texas, and that under the present circumstances, that the Alliance was unwelcome, even in Republican Kansas, allowing itself to be used as the aid and first lieutenant of the Democratic party. Senator Bentley made a careful comparison between Jerry Simpson, that gallant soldier and citizen, Col. James R. Hallows.

Senator Bentley specially urged the election of Hon. E. W. Phillips, as representative of this district, and said "Mr. Phillips was an honorable, high-minded gentleman, a farmer, and a member of the Alliance in good standing. As a further reason for the return of Mr. Phillips, Mr. Bentley said that Mr. Phillips would vote for Senator Ingalls. Senator Bentley said that in the joint convention of the two houses his name appeared first on the alphabetical roll call. That in the last session he was proud to say that he was the first man on the roll call to vote for Senator Plumb, and that at the coming session he would consider it a privilege and an honor to vote for John James Ingalls, for United States senator. Senator Bentley illustrated his speech with humorous anecdotes, which kept his audience in good humor, and while dealing with serious matters, we were offended no one. The meeting was a pleasant one and was voted a success by every one present. It was thoroughly billed by that staunch Republican, John Vanneman, Esq., who presided at the meeting. Put down that locality for the full Republican vote at the coming election.

AT CHENEY. The Republican rally at Cheney on Friday night was a splendid success. County Committeeman A. S. Marble called the meeting to order. The meeting was addressed by C. A. Brooks, who in a masterly dress of the situation, said that the hard times which oppressed the people of Kansas, reached all classes, even the mortgage companies, who were so roundly berated, were rapidly becoming bankrupts; this was an evidence that they could not prosper while the farmer was suffering from adversity. He then showed that the political parties were not responsible for the hard times, that the hard times had brought about the Alliance movement; that the legislation of the Republican party had been constantly in the interest of the farming element. He spoke of the reduction in the tariff, the silver bill, the anti-trust and combine bill, the pension bill and other matters of interest to the farmer. He alluded to the fact that the Kansas legislature had always been composed of a majority of farmers, and that they had made laws to suit themselves, including the exemption of the laborer's wages, the homestead and house-hold goods, and the lien for the farmer's work. He also referred to the several platforms of the several parties; that they all demanded much the same thing; that the Republican party was the only party to whom the people could look for a performance of their pledge to the people. Mr. Brooks spoke for an hour and a half and was heard with the most earnest attention.

P. A. Rohrbach was then introduced. He said if our former friend should have offered them the things then orators were demanding, like the old donkey who prayed for God to come right away and take him to heaven. When the Lord knocked for admittance he insisted that he didn't want to go, it was only a form of prayer. He referred briefly to the various schemes of these orators to purchase the railroads, build warehouses, lend money at 1 per cent to the people, and he spoke of the inextricable law of nature and society which required that by the sweat of the face man should eat his bread; that all valuable things were only to be had by labor and economy, and the man who went into the great Kansas boom and lost his all ought to take his medicine like a man, and go to work to repair the evil by the necessary laws of trade. He spoke also of the fact that no secret political organization could exist in a free country; that any organization which sought to make laws to control and affect all the citizens would be open to the inspection of all men; that such an organization is inimical and dangerous to free institutions and would not be tolerated by the people. That the Democrats of the south were using the Kansas farmer to defeat John J. Ingalls, a man who by his own inherent strength was holding Kansas in the front rank of the galaxy of states. Mr. Rohrbach spoke for an hour in a happy vein which kept his audience in a humorous mood.

The meeting was a great success in numbers and enthusiasm. Mr. Marble said the Republicans are all right at Cheney, and we may add that Mr. Marble is an active and enthusiastic committeeman.

THE HALL-WEEN TEA. The Y. P. S. C. E. of Central Christian church, is making arrangements for a social, which is styled a tea, to be held on Halloween, and which is warranted to be a sure preventative for the blues or any mental malady.

The chief attractions of the evening will be orchestral music and a most delectable lunch, and in order that none may miss the tea and all may know just what to expect the menu will be given, which is as follows:

NEW ENGLAND BRAINS. What Astonishes People Are. Inadequate Berries. What Most People Need. Food of the Spinning Wheel. A Celebrated Art. Women of Girt. All Things to All Men. Boston's Overthrow. Spring's Offering. Fruit of the Vine, Labor's Sweet Harvest. What Shall we do with Mrs. Langtry? Today's Part. Unruly Member. What a Boy calls his Sweetheart. Fruit of the Vine, Labor's Sweet Harvest. What Shall we do with Mrs. Langtry? Today's Part. Unruly Member. What a Boy calls his Sweetheart. Fruit of the Vine, Labor's Sweet Harvest.

Everybody is invited to come and partake of the dishes, which will be prepared after the most improved French plans.

Policeman George Dennis reports the arrival of a bright sun at his home.

Mr. E. F. Miller, the singer and revivalist, will be at Dodge avenue M. E. church all day today, to assist the pastor in the services. Come and hear him sing.

Tom Eckhardt thought it was getting cold yesterday and tried to steal a couple of blankets, but he landed in the calaboose last night.

Mr. W. J. MacConnell, of Chicago, representing the Northwestern Rubber company, is spending a few days in the city, calling in his friends from surrounding towns.

THE ENTRE NOUS ENTERTAINMENT.

The well known and charitable society known as the Entre Nous, gave a most interesting and amusing entertainment, followed by a dance and a lunch. It is an old established fact that whatever has been taken place under the auspices of this flourishing and energetic society, has ever met with success, but there is every reason to conclude that the last effort deserves appreciative commendation.

The performance began with that beautiful tableau known as "Lorelei," ably represented by Mrs. A. Katz, who looked lovelier than ever in the graceful and stately pose. Following her, appeared the young favorites, Miss Dell and Miss Hannah Goldberg in a song and dance duet, which was met with great applause. Their tasty little costumes and pretty movements but added to their sweet voices and cute selections. A very effective recitation from Miss Hannah Goldberg followed. Then came that much admired set of pictures, "In Love" and "The Peacemaker," represented in tableaux by Mrs. Robert Jacks, Mrs. Charles Cohn and Mr. M. W. Levy. To say the ladies looked lovely, each in their separate styles of Grecian beauty, does not express how very sweet and touching these tableaux were represented by them, and Mr. Levy was a typical lover all the way through. He was in the next tableau and in the next, with Mrs. M. Cohn, in "Before and After Marriage," which were excellently portrayed, and Mrs. M. Cohn's martyr-like expression when she found herself compelled to "steer alone," was very amusing and was greeted with great applause.

The second part of the performance, "The Minstrel Show," was as much a general surprise as was a complete success and thorough amusement. The end men, Mr. Mike, and Mr. Henry Drucker, could not be distinguished from regular professional minstrels, and with Mr. A. Goldstand as center man, could not by any country. Grapes never fail. This year for the first time since the settlement of the country grapes were cut somewhat by an unusual late frost. Now Mr. Joseph Starr sends us eleven apples that fill a basket which holds about a peck, or forty-four apples to the bushel. They are the Rome Beauty, we should judge. Every apple is sound, perfect in form and the most highly colored. In his note to us he asks "who can beat them?" We confidently answer, no one. He says he has already picked over one hundred bushels of this same sort this fall.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF KANSAS AND ESPECIALLY OF THE ARKANSAS VALLEY FOR FRUIT seem as yet but little appreciated or understood. Such peaches as have reached our table this season were never surpassed by any country. Grapes never fail. This year for the first time since the settlement of the country grapes were cut somewhat by an unusual late frost. Now Mr. Joseph Starr sends us eleven apples that fill a basket which holds about a peck, or forty-four apples to the bushel. They are the Rome Beauty, we should judge. THE WICHITA ELECTRIC RAILWAY company has been greatly delayed in putting in the system by inability to get all the material. For some days it has been impossible to make any headway at the station owing to the inability to get steam pipe. The engine for steam power is set with pipe three or four days would find the engine completed ready for work. Two dynamo each one hundred horse power are in position ready for business. This will be enough to run the entire system, but one more dynamo one hundred horse power is expected to arrive within a few days. The dynamo at the power works a one hundred horse and the dynamo at the River side station is an eighty horse. These will be brought to the central station, but the move can be done without impairing the service.

As soon as the Santa Fe crossing at Douglas is paved the completion of the College Hill line will soon follow. The entire system can be completed within a few days soon as the company can commence work.

The company is having some trouble with the ten cars ordered at Kansas City. The cars have been completed but do not conform to the contract and hence some trouble about accepting them. The very best car known was ordered, but in some features the job does not conform to the specifications. The management does not want to pay first class prices and get second class cars. It is not known yet what will be the result. In the event the order is placed with another company there would undoubtedly be a delay of some months yet, which is a bad feature. The company has on hand about all the motors and are delayed in receiving the body of the cars.

THE MARKETS.

The receipts of live stock at the Union stock yards for the past week has been cattle, 1,728; hogs, 5,214, against 2,114 cattle and 4,089 hogs for the week previous. The shipments were 1,209 cattle, 3,479 hogs. The cattle receipts show a decrease, but the hog receipts increased 1,125. The quality of the hogs has been better the past week than the week previous. The price paid has been a little in advance of that of week before last, but has declined 5 to 10 cents in the last two days. The market of the past week has been more satisfactory to country buyers than the one just prior, being active most of the time and steady. The increase in receipts should affect the market favorably. This market with future shipments to Kansas City, being nearer to them and consequently they suffer less from shrinkage on stock and have less freight to pay. The showing made by the Wichita live stock market will compare favorably with that made by any new market in the middle or western states.

THIS SABBATH MORNING.

The echoes of the toll, bell and turmoil of a political campaign and of the strife and unequal struggles of humanity, some for bread and others for supremacy; these confusion echoes as they ceaselessly roll through the avenues of heart and brain, are all out of harmony with a season whose tinted leaves and softened sunshine, whose dim and uncertain shadows and shortening days so touchingly plead for rest, and yet with such kindly eloquence warn us that death is coming to every thing and to all. Calmness, indeed, must be the soul who sees and feels these incongruities and sad want of harmony between nature and man, whom God made for each other, that does not greet the light and quiet of each recurring Sabbath day with a heart full of gratitude for the surcease which it brings, for its offerings and its promises.

MISS CLARA BOWMAN entertained some of her friends in honor of her birthday at her home 1306 Lulu avenue. The music was spent in games and time after which an elegant lunch was served. Among those present were Walter Scott, Lory Burns, Mansfield Gibbons, Arthur Rhodes, Arthur Scott, Willie Gould, Charlie Murphy, Harry Bowman, Moses Sells, Kate and Pearl Shuman, Annie Herberger, Marcia Scott, Mable Murphy, Bessie Stewart, Jessie Miller and Nellie Murphy. Miss Clara was the recipient of quite a number of presents.

TO YOUNG MEN.

To the Editor of the Eagle. WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 26, 1890. I have a matter to present to the young men of Wichita, which I believe would interest them. I cordially invite all the young men of the city, not otherwise engaged, to meet with my class at the First M. E. church (this Sunday) afternoon at 2:30. We will consider the matter of which I speak at that time.

McVAY-MILLER.

Last Wednesday, Oct. 23, Mr. J. F. McVay of Wichita, and Lizzie Miller, of White Water, were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grimes, in the Fletcher block, by Judge Buckner. Mr. McVay is a young man of high standing, connected with the firm of Young Bros., and has lived in this city for a number of years. Miss Miller is one of the most prominent society ladies of White Water, Kan. After the ceremony was performed an elegant supper was served. Only the most intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. Some beautiful presents were received. The happy couple will make their home in Wichita and reside in the Fletcher block.

NO LAW FOR PARK BONDS.

There was some discussion yesterday about park bond matters. The council had decided to submit to the people the proposition to vote $20,000 bonds for the purchase of the Greifenstein park and an investigation by some of the attorneys results in the opinion that there is no provision in the state law authorizing the city power to vote an indebtedness for that purpose. Should this be accepted as the law, then it will be considered useless to have the bond proposition voted upon. This, according to one concerned in the matter, calls for some legislation. Considerable advantageous legislation relating to cities of the first class was passed at the last session of the legislature and more is thought to be in demand this year.

FINE APPLES.

The Possibilities of Kansas and especially of the Arkansas valley for fruit seem as yet but little appreciated or understood. Such peaches as have reached our table this season were never surpassed by any country. Grapes never fail. This year for the first time since the settlement of the country grapes were cut somewhat by an unusual late frost. THE PRO-CATHOLIC FAIR.

Tomorrow evening the fair conducted by the ladies of the Catholic congregation will open at Garfield hall.

The prospects for the success of the fair are very flattering. Thanks to the efforts of the workers and to the donors for their liberality, a large number of handsome and valuable articles have been collected and the display of goods will be quite elaborate. A magnificent floral display by Mrs. Chaffield will be one of the attractive features of the decoration. Garfield hall, as being centrally located and easy of access from all quarters of the city, has been secured for the exhibition. Brass band and orchestra will furnish music every evening.

A large U. S. flag 27 ft by 15 ft. will be voted to the people by pecking holes in an elegant gentleman's chair to the next representative in congress of the Seventh district, and a handsome doll to the prettiest little girl. All these articles are on display at the hall.

Dinner will be served each day beginning at 11:30 and suppers at night. Everything will be done to make the fair attractive and thus insure success.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S LITERARY SOCIETY.

A large and interested audience filled the lecture room of the Baptist church to enjoy the exercises of this dissipated popular society. The exercises preceding the debate included the reading of the society's paper by J. Luther Burns, and recitations by Misses Flossie Thayer and Lila Hatten.

The president appointed twelve judges to decide the debate on the question: Resolved, That the McKinley bill is detrimental to the best interests of the country.

The disputants were arranged as follows: Affirmative—J. F. Adams and J. J. Fegley. Negative—R. W. Craig, Theodore Forby and R. F. Wilner.

The judges decided 8 to 4 in favor of the affirmative. The audience by their vote also favored the affirmative. Mr. Charles Lease acted as critic of the evening.

The question which will come before the society for debate on Friday evening, Oct. 31, reads: Resolved, That corporations are a greater source of danger than anarchists to an operation, expending his long would have to be taken off, and began giving his hosts' hospitality in order to get up his strength. The resolution was up his appetite and some pieces of food were discarded from the scene. We continued with Mrs. H. H. Hatten, as it seemed to be doing him so much good and the doctors feel more than grateful to the faithful friends who remembered them on their annual Donation Day.
